Conscription Here—There

One of the most ubiquitous, and certainly the most vocal, opponents of conscription in the United States has been the Communist party. And this is odd. Russia, to whom these And this is odd. Russia, to whom these people owe at least spiritual allegiance, has just called up its youth of 18, 19 and 20 for compulsory army service.

Conscription, then, is fine for the "socialist fatherland," but the U. S. must have no part of it.

This is very puzzling to those who are inexpert in Communist dialectic. To an outsider it looks as though these people were much concerned that Russia should win any war in which it might become involved, but less concerned about how America might fare in a similar crisis.

America will be defended no less resolutely, by means democratically decided upon, perhaps even by such means as the Com-munists adopt on the home ground, reject here.
