Great Britain U.S. Watchful

By JOE ALLEN MORRIS
United Press Foreign News Editor

British war power and American economic weight today were thrown against what Axis sources insisted was a potential world front of "new empires"—Germany, Italy, Spain, Russia and Japan.

U. S. moves in what may be the opening phase of a titanic world struggle for power and empire were confined to the economic sphere, but their effects may be far-reaching. British bombers and warships hammered at German and Italian objectives.

President Roosevelt invoked embargo on shipment of U. S. iron and steel scrap, except to Great Britain and the western hemisphere. Officially the move was to "conserve" U. S. resources of this vital war material.

U. S. DISTURBED
Actually Washington made no secret that the action was directed against Japan, which has imported vast quantities of scrap to feed her far-flung war machine. The Japanese move was this week against French Indo-China was regarded particularly disturbing to the U. S.

Axis preoccupation with the possibilities of the far east situation was emphasized by Vittorio Gayda, Italian editor who often speaks for Premier Benito Mussolini.

He warned that Italy was on Japan's side in the far east and that any location stand on the part of the French, as well as their American and British protection, would only bring about further Japanese expansion in Asia.

TROOPS LANDED
Japanese troops landed at Haiphong, Indo-Chinese port today, under terms of the "peaceful" agreement signed by Vichy and Tokyo. Their arrival was heralded by the dropping of four bombs which caused 15 native deaths.

The royal air force hammered away at both ends of the axis, in the Mediterranean and in attacks of the war. Berlin was subjected to a five-hour raid, long-jump bombing of the city.

Other bombing squadrons blasted the Mediterranean coast, the canal and a torrent of bombs smashed down on the "invader" in the French and Belgium coasts.

STRIKE AT ITALIANS
In the middle east, the British Mediterranean fleet opened up with a withering bombardment on Sidi Barrani, farthest point of the Italian advance into Egypt.

British bombers swooped down on Tobruk, a strategic Libya, for the second raid in two days. Rome reported that five persons were killed and 1,469,952 lire for the war and navy departments.

Navy appropriations included: $9,000,000 for facilities for manufacture of anti-aircraft guns; $27,000,000 for aviation ordinance; $15,000,000 for aircraft plant expansion; $4,500,000 cash, and contractual authority of $8,500,000 for public works. This included $3,000,000 for initial work on a $10,000,000 graving dock in New York harbor.

The bill also carried funds to provide for full military complements to man seacoast defense batteries.

SCHARNHORST BOMB TARGET

British Claim Naval Headquarters at Kiel Bombed

LONDON, Sept. 26.—(UP)—Twenty German bombers protected by 50 fighters attempted a raid Southampton today, but were engaged by British fighters who shot down six planes, all believed to be bombers.

Two pilots parachuted to safety. The air ministry meanwhile reported that royal air force bombers had again destroyed the Scharnhorst in the course of faring air attacks on Germany last night and early today.

The Scharnhorst, according to British report, has been attacked at least three other times by R. A. F. planes and was believed damaged in an engagement with the 33,000-ton British battleship Renown during the Norwegian campaign.

The next attack, the air ministry said, was made in the course of a raid on the strongly defended naval dockyard at Kiel.

STREET GRADING BIDS ARE ASKED

Streets will follow the contour of the earth, for the most part and no great cuts or fills will be made, under present plans of the architects in Seattle.

NEW CITY LAW WILL PROTECT MEAT BUYERS

All Carcasses Will Be Inspected Before Retail Sale

Machinery for the inspection of meat sold in Bremerton was set up today by the city commission.

The ordinance, designed for the protection of public health, regulates the business of slaughtering livestock and the preparation, sale and handling of meat and meat products intended for human consumption.

The measure was passed today after long study by the city fathers. State health officials and the city institute some means of inspection to insure the wholesomeness of meat consumed here by the civilian population and the thousands of service men who visit the city each year.

EMPLOY INSPECTOR
Employment of a city meat inspector is authorized in the ordinance, which is self-supporting. The inspector will receive his salary from an inspection fee of 25 cents per carcass.

It shall be unlawful," the ordinance reads, "for any person to sell for sale, or expose for sale for human consumption, without the inspection of a city inspector of the products thereof, has been inspected, stamped and certified as to its fitness for human food by an authorized inspector of the bureau of agriculture, U. S. department of agriculture, or by an approved veterinary inspector of the state of Washington, as provided by the rules and regulations of the Washington state board of health, or by the city meat inspector."

RIGID ENFORCEMENT
In another portion of the ordinance it says that "the said inspector shall refuse to inspect any carcasses which are the property of, or are produced by, persons other than farmers as defined herein."

Mayor Homer R. Jones, commenting on the passage of the ordinance this morning, said that the measure was not opposed by any meat retailer, wholesaler or farmer who sells his products within the city limits.

INDICTMENT OF KIDNAPER DUE

REDWOOD CITY, Calif., Sept. 26.—(UP)—Under heavy guard, stolen Wilhem Jakob Mullenbrock, 40-year-old German alien, was spirited over back country roads in a fast automobile from San Francisco to Redwood City, and secretly brought into jail.

The grand jury meets tomorrow to consider the case. Mullenbrock was abrupt with newsmen who sought to interview him. "I don't want no publicity," he said.

U.S. EMBARGO ON SCRAP IRON HITS AT JAPAN

Britain Not Affected by F. D.'s Decree on Metal

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—(UP)—The U. S. today embargoed shipment to Japan of iron and steel scrap, an important war material, effective Oct. 10.

The ban also will affect all countries outside the western hemisphere, with the sole exception of Great Britain.

But of the large number of countries technically affected, Japan is the only one to have had a consistent heavy purchaser of steel and iron scrap. Italy's recent heavy trade was cut off by the British blockade.

President Roosevelt's announcement that he intended to conserve the scrap metal for this country's own defense. Recently, Mr. Roosevelt had been preoccupied with the far eastern crisis arising from Japan's action in French Indo-China and dispute over control of Bhangan.

The embargo was long feared by the Japanese, who had threatened economic retaliation if one was levied. Recently, Mr. Roosevelt had been preoccupied with the far eastern crisis arising from Japan's action in French Indo-China and dispute over control of Bhangan.
