

Boy King Rules Nation; British Happy

...supplication that the Soviet ... have given ... under ... the anti-German ... One of the chief ... in the coup was the ... party, whose leader, ... has been ... to Moscow and quit his post ... to come back home on receiving ... of the axis pact ... Matsuzaka met with Hitler in Berlin today after conversations with Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, which were reported to have resulted in the final "T" agreement.

It was suspected, however, that the overturn in Berlin may have cost something of a pull over the big demonstrations of axis ... accord which Nazi propagandists have repeatedly said should most closely observed in the U. S.

EDEN MAY VISIT

Budapest heard rumors that Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who has been working feverishly in the middle east to bolster Britain's front against Nazi attack, may visit Belgrade shortly, presumably to attempt to bring Jugoslavia into a united front against further German Balkan penetration.

There was no direct word from Belgrade regarding the coup and the direct word as to the plans of Jugoslavia's rulers. It would not be said flatly that it would throw the axis pact into the discard.

There has been a revolution in Yugoslavia, Churchill said, the National Union of Conservatives in London.

Early this morning the Yugoslav nation found its soul," he said, picking British up and down regime and adding that he had no doubt America would offer similar encouragement.

ARMY READY TO FIGHT

Jugoslavia's army, totaling 875,000 and 1,000,000 men, stands mobilized and ready for action if Hitler decides to cut the Gordian knot of his dilemma by releasing his panzer divisions into the Balkans to win Yugoslavia by force of arms. And that seemed to be the only method available which could attempt to restore the damage to axis prestige.

If Jugoslavia will stand and fight against German domination, Turkey has said she will do the same.

Such a line-up would affect radically the fighting odds in the Balkans even if Germany still hold an edge.

Col. Donovan Suggests U. S. Convoys

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(UP)—Col. William J. Donovan, recently returned from his post as assistant to the administration's unofficial observer, last night implied the need of American convoys for war supplies to Britain and said the American people should decide now whether they are "going to deliver the goods."

In a radio speech broadcast by the three major networks, Donovan said that $7,000,000,000 worth of aid program would "mean nothing" unless the war supplies actually reach their destination.

Material now on being sent to the British because of the "business of protection" against German submarines, airplanes, mines and raiders.

America, he said, has no choice "as to whether or not we will be attacked," although "some men" are still "not for Africa and Asia and the world" he said.
