

TAKE 150 FROM SINKING VESSEL

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, March 2.—(UP)—The British freighter Newfoundland won a furious race across rough seas to save the lives of 150 men early today and was taking off the crew of the sinking seining ship, the Ranger.

For more than six hours, the crew of the 320-ton, 48-year-old Ranger had kept her afloat by baling out her flooding holds with fuel, buckets, and cooking utensils. The Newfoundland, some 50 miles away when the Ranger finished her first 808, arrived alongside noon and began at once to remove the crew.

The Ranger sailed from this port Tuesday under the command of a veteran sealer, Captain John Badcock. Sealers always carry large crews to man their dories and to cut up and preserve the catch. She was heavily provisioned for a long expedition in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and was fully loaded with bunker coal.

At noon Wednesday she was caught in a heavy gale which soon was kicking up a mountainous sea. Last night her seams began opening.

Cardinal Pacelli, as the new pope, went at once to this room, donned the set of robes which he fitted him, and returned to the chapel to receive the individual homage of the cardinals, who knelt before him one by one and kissed his foot.

Then Cardinal Caecilia Dominioni announced the election and the name of the new pope from a balcony overlooking St. Peter's square.

Interim Ruler

Statesman, scholar, linguist, Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli has been interim ruler of the church since the death, Feb. 10, of Pope Pius XI.

His election by fellow cardinals was a distinct triumph of personality, as his frail health makes him unfit for arduous labor.

Cardinal Pacelli has served the church long and well before his elevation to the purple. Not only is he Roman born, but of a family that has been close to the Vatican. His father, Filippo Pacelli, was dean of the consistorial advocates. His brother, Francesco, was made a marquis and a councillor of the new Vatican state for his services in the negotiations that raised the Vatican to temporal equality with the Italian throne.

As pope, he can be expected to carry out the non-political policies of Pius XI in a world of conflicting ideologies he will be a solid rock of faith.
