

GERMANY MAY CALL BRITISH ENVOY HOME

Nazi-English Relations Are Strained Over Jewish Persecution Methods

LONDON — (AP) — Reports that Germany was considering calling her ambassador home for consultations on the deterioration of relations with Britain since the Nazi anti-Jewish drive were published here Tuesday.

The reports were unofficial and the German Embassy spokesman would not discuss them.

Resentment was apparent among Nazis, however, against a parliamentary motion deploring treatment of "certain racial, religious and political minorities in Europe," and a proposal that Tanganyika, former German East Africa, be one refuge for German Jews.

The house of commons unanimously adopted the motion Monday night. It suggested "an immediate concerted effort amongst the nations, including the United States, to secure a common policy," and was offered by Phillip J. Noel-Baker, labor party member.

Labor members proposed a tax on German products, control of German assets in England and strong diplomatic action to demonstrate British disapproval of the Nazi anti-Jewish program.

Noel-Baker told the house he had been informed 70 Jews were killed in a concentration camp and detailed other instances of mistreatment in Germany.

He advocated a three-point plan — 1. A protest to Berlin by Britain, the United States and other governments; 2. Inform Germany there could be no cordial relations "while the martyrdom of Jews, socialists, Protestants and Catholics goes on;" 3. "Consider if we should not take measures of active self-protection."

Premier Chamberlain told parliament Monday the government was prepared to lease for Jewish refugees at least 10,000 square miles in British Guiana, colony on the north-east coast of South Africa; and as much land in British Tanganyika, Northern Rhodesia, Nysaland, and Kenya colony as economically and climatically suitable.
