Latter in Minority, But Dominate, Says Adviser of Hitler.

BERLIN. (AP) Dr. Otto Wagener, one of Chancellor Hitler's most intimate advisers, said in an interview that the anti-Jewish boycott would be called off the minute leading German Jews disassociate themselves from the so-called eastern and migratory Jews, and as soon as foreign governments compel their Jews to cease anti-German propaganda. (The interview with Dr. Wagener was obtained before the government announced that the boycott would be effective Saturday only and would then be held in abeyance until Wednesday.) Dr. Wagener shared prison with Hitler in the days when nazism was prosecuted, and now he heads the nazi party's economic division.

"What the world does not realize," he said, "is that whenever Germans and Jews mix Jewish blood dominates. Another reason for German anti-semitism is the fact that the German is too credulous and hence is no match for the Jew. When it comes to legal practice our German Jews themselves admit they do not go by what is in a law, but look for what has been omitted from it. The Jews comprise only 1 percent of our population, they dominate in the law and in medicine, on the stage and in the foreign office, where they have seized the most important posts. In industry, too, they have dominated. While the Germans worked at handcraft, Jews had their eyes solely on factories which threw craftsmen out of employment and rendered them superfluous.

"Now, when the national revolution came, we fully expected the German Jews would themselves come to offer to co-operate in ridding ourselves of the 200,000 galician Jews who merely came here to live parasitic lives. Instead, the German Jews identify themselves with the Galicians. Therefore we say, whenever men like Franz von Mendelssohn, Max Warburg, or the German Government Sets Down Rules for Reprisals on the Jews.

BERLIN. (AP) The government stepped in at the last minute with an order that the anti-Jewish boycott, which is to start at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, will last one day only and then will be held in abeyance until Wednesday. This action, taken after considerable pressure had been brought to bear to prevent disruption of the nation's business life, led some observers to assert that the boycott movement would be dropped entirely after the single day.

Joseph Goebbels, cabinet minister of propaganda signed the order which signalized the first official move in the boycott situation. It was the nazi party of Chancellor Hitler, rather than the government itself, which ordered the nationwide repressive measures. Dr. Goebbels asserted in his proclamation that the interim between the end of the one day boycott and Wednesday should be considered as a respite. In this interim the government hopes that no more reports of anti-Jewish atrocities in Germany will be printed in newspapers abroad. If foreign propaganda has not been ended by 10 a. m. Wednesday, Dr. Goebbels said, the boycott will be resumed "with full force and vehemence which until now has been undreamed of."

The minister of propaganda preceded his reading of the government boycott manifesto to a packed nazi meeting by a declaration of nazi antipathy toward the Jews. He whipped the crowd into a frenzy and there were scattered shouts of "hang them!"

Dr. Goebbels accused the Jews of taking bread from German workers by agitating an international anti-German boycott. "When American and English Jews attack the German government," he said, "we cannot hinder the German people from attacking German Jews. We did not plan to open this question immediately. We had more important things to do. We endured the Jews, and what was their gratitude? German Jews can thank the wandering Jews, Einstein and Feuchtwanger."

At this point there were cries of "hang them." (Prof. Albert Einstein has announced that he will not set foot on German soil so long as conditions in Germany remain as they are. Lion Feuchtwanger has written numerous articles for publications outside of Germany attacking the nazis on the ground of anti-Semitism.) Doctor Goebbels ridiculed stories abroad that nazis had criminally attacked Jewish girls.

Doctor Goebbels' proclamation set forth the the government had "observed with satisfaction that reports of atrocities are ceasing."

The propaganda minister also issued a set of boycott rules, declaring:

That no banks must be closed. That nazis must not enter boycotted premises.

That the boycott must be kept within legal regulations. (Boycotters are liable for any damage inflicted under the law.)

The rules also called for the barring from criminal courts of newspaper reporters, serving in their professional capacity, who are Jews, marxists or communists.

Jews at State Department.

WASHINGTON. (AP) Leaders of American Jewry visited the state department twice to keep in touch with the anti-semitic situation in Germany, but both the callers and government officials refrained from any comment. Rabbi Wise and Bernard S. Deutsch of the American Jewish congress called on Undersecretary Phillips both in the morning and afternoon, but he said the visit was merely to get information. When word came late in the day that the Hitler government would restrict the boycott to a single day if reactions abroad were satisfactory, there were evidences of relief in Washington official quarters. Ambassador Von Prittwitz of Germany called on Assistant Secretary Moley.

NEW YORK. (AP) The socialist party issued a statement announcing thru Norman Thomas the formation of "the labor and socialist conference against fascism" to give "all possible aid to the foes of Hitler, Mussolini and other dictators." The association was formed, the statement said, after a series of conferences between representatives of local trade unions, the socialist party, the league for industrial democracy and other labor and liberal groups. The reorganization plans to bring prominent German socialist refugees here for a speaking tour and also will collect funds to be sent to German so-

DRAFT FORESTATION PLANS

Washington Officials Will Speed Jobless Relief.

WASHINGTON. (AP). Four government departments threw their administrative agencies into high gear to carry out President Roosevelt's program for putting 250,000 men to work on forest projects. Soon after the president signed the bill, the war, interior, agriculture and labor departments arranged for the selection of a coordinator who will centralize control of the program.

The president is hopeful that the first recruits will be put to work in two or three weeks and that the whole 250,000 will be on duty by midsummer. The first step, re-leaders were informed the assembly would be unable to act on the bill until Monday, the armistice was extended over the week-end.

The armistice came after the three strikers had been seriously injured and scores of combatants bruised and cut in the more than sixty hours of continuous battling, during which an estimated 25,000 gallons of milk was destroyed.
