

Germany Provides For Sterilization

Berlin, June 25 (AP)—A new law authorizing sterilization at the individual's own request or in extreme cases even without the consent of the individual was announced by the Nazi government today as effective January 1, 1934.

The new act aims at purifying the German race by sterilization of the unfit, such as hereditary epileptics, the deaf, dumb, congenitally feeble minded, the deformed or chronic alcoholics.

Control powers for execution of the law will be vested in a special "hereditary health board." Appeals will be heard by a supreme health council of three experts whose decision will be final.
